I'm gay, so...I don't need any contraception. (Yes, I use a vibrator.)

I'm living with my parents.

I'm in a regular relationship. (I've been seeing my girlfriend Tania for 2 years.)

Never smoked. No personal or family history of Asthma.

I work in an office as a secretary. No I'm not sporty.

First line and history

Erm, I've got a bad chest.

Okay. Tell me more?

It's been for about - over a week now; quite chesty, tickly cough, and I lay down the other night and felt like I couldn't breathe a little bit.

Because it was just kind of catching my breath to be honest.

No, it was just that once, and it kind of caught - I don't know whether I was just coughing that much...

If asked specifically: Yes, my weight hasn't changed. No, I wouldn't call them coughing fits, just an irritating cough. And no, I haven't vomited with it.

I've had the tickly cough syrup and stuff like that, but it hasn't...done anything. It's like the more that I cough, I get a bad head and stuff.

If asked if there was some other issue today: No, I haven't had a bad throat or anything. I came the other week, if you look on the notes, I was here last week, and I had a phone call with one of the doctors. I have stopped bleeding, so it was just to inform them. (I had bled after intercourse in the middle of my cycle, just a couple of times, the nurse examined me and took some swabs. The swabs were normal.)

Ideas – Not really. Just to come to yourself, really.

If asked again: No, just thought that maybe it was a chest infection, anything like that.

Concerns – Nothing.

Expectations – Just have a look and see what’s going on.
Just don’t want to cough anymore, I’m sick of coughing.
